Buckthorn Blaster™ Duo Kit (5 tips, 3 caps, 2 bottles)

The Duo Kit Buckthorn Blaster™ are (two) hand-held, 4-ounce capacity herbicide applicators (purchase herbicide separately) for cut-stump herbicide treatment of buckthorn and other undesirable stemmed plants. In Worcester County, this is especially useful for problematic species such as Oriental Bittersweet, Winged Euonymus \(Burning Bush\) , Multiflora Rose, Autumn Olive, and buckthorn, among others. There are five replaceable foam applicator tips of the Buckthorn Blaster™ which releases herbicide only when pressure is applied to freshly cut buckthorn stumps. The minimal but effective herbicide delivery of the Buckthorn Blaster™ allows you to greatly reduce the amount of herbicide getting out into the environment and to spend hours treating invasive plant stumps without an herbicide refill. Includes: (5 tips, 3 caps, & 2 bottles)

The Buckthorn Blaster™ eliminates hazardous spills that often occur with open herbicide containers. The Buckthorn Blaster™ prevents the “drift” hazard to humans and native plants associated with herbicide sprayers. The Buckthorn Blaster™ uses less herbicide to control invasive plants – better for the environment, better for your wallet!

This Buckthorn Blaster™ includes three applicator tips and an applicator tip removal tool to remove or replace applicator tips. *Herbicide and blue dye are not included.

Available for $12.00.

Price: 2 bottles, 3 caps, 5 tips for $25.00

Camassia Quamash

A Pacific Northwest U.S. native circa 1837, the Indian Hyacinth is best grown in moist, fertile soil in full sun to partial sunlight. Commercially grown in the Netherlands for decades, unlike most bulbs, it prefers soil that has a bit more moisture. Deer- and rodent-resistant, C. quamash forms ever substantive clusters of linear strappy foliage around upright racemes studded with dozens of six-petaled, 2", star-shaped lavender-blue flowers with yellow anthers and whisper-green centers. The flowers open sequentially from the bottom to the top. Bulb size: 6 cm/up. Full to partial sunlight. Bloom time in horticultural zone 5: May/June. HZ: 4-8. Height: 15".

Drumstick Allium Sphaerocephalon

The Drumstick Allium. Dating back to the 16th century, this terrific naturalizing heirloom has dense, egg-shaped composite flowers that open green and mature to rich crimson-purple. Perched atop wiry, yet strong stems, 1" - to 1 1/2"-wide round composite flowers dance in the breeze as the individual florets open from the top down with shimmery silver-white stamen. Each composite flower becomes more egg-shaped as it matures. Best planted en masse, it is one of the most cost effective of all Allium (along with A. aflatunense Purple Sensation), perfect for thick drifts in mixed perennial beds, meadows and natural settings. Don't let anyone weed the thin wiry stems as they emerge in late spring! It too is rabbit-, rodent- and deer-resistant and much loved by bees, butterflies and helpful pollinators. Bulb size: 6 cm/up. July. HZ: 4-9. Height: 24". We are very sorry, but due to state agricultural restrictions, we are not permitted to ship Allium bulbs to Idaho, or to the following five counties in the State of Washington: Adams, Benton, Franklin, Grant and Klickitat.

Ornithogalum Balansae

Circa 1884, this miniature heirloom yields slender stems adorned with up to five star-shaped white flowers with faint green stripes, tiny glowing green centers and yellow anthers, and somewhat sparse linear foliage. As it matures over time, when it's extremely happy where it's planted, it can naturalize by both bulb offsets (called bulbils: baby bulbs on the sides of the mother bulb you've planted) and, occasionally, self-sowing seed. Since it's not tremendously hardy, you may want to apply no more than a 2" layer of mulch after the surface of the ground freezes to protect it from winter temperature spiking in the event of inconsistent snow coverage. You'll need about nine bulbs per square foot. (Square footage is determined multiplying the planting site's length times its width.) Bulb size: 5 cm/up. Full to partial sunlight. Bloom time in horticultural zone 5: March/April. Plant 4" to 6" deep and 4" to 6" apart. HZ: 5-8. Height: 5".

Scilla bifolia rosea

Also known as Scilla bifolia carnea or the Alpine Squill, this lightly scented 17th century naturalizer has trusses of star-shaped light pink florets and strappy foliage. It's a lovely addition to rock gardens, woodlands and garden borders. Generally referred to as Wood Squill, deer- and rodent-resistant Scilla naturalize readily in areas of light shade or dappled sunlight. When it's really happy where planted, it can naturalize by both bulb offsets (baby bulbs on the sides of the mother bulb you've planted) and self-sowing seed. You'll need about nine bulbs per square foot. (Square footage is determined multiplying the planting site's length times its width.) In woodland settings, you can also scatter-plant the bulbs for a more natural look. Bulb size: 5 cm/up. Full to partial sunlight. Bloom time in horticultural zone 5: early spring. Plant 5" deep and 4" to 6" apart. HZ: 4-8. Height: 4" to 5". (Scilla are also good for forcing indoors over the winter. Pot them up in mid-October and precool them at a consistent, dark 38° to 45°F for six to eight weeks with moderate watering. Bring them into the house~they will bloom about two to four weeks later.)
